The University of Rio Grande/Rio Grande Community College is offering an innovative and exciting new Hospitality Management Program in partnership with Bob Evans Farms, Inc. The program offers bachelor's and associate degrees with the opportunity to work full-time for Bob Evans while pursuing the degree.

The “One of a Kind” partnership with the Bob Evans Corporation blends the University's Business Management Program with the expertise of one of the most successful Ohio-based leaders in hospitality and restaurant management. This cutting-edge program is designed to bring the classroom and real-world experience together to provide an effective and efficient educational experience.

The hospitality industry—and restaurants in particular—have been a steady source of jobs in a struggling economy. Currently, 524,000 jobs in Ohio are in hospitality, generating $16-billion in sales for the state and it is expected that these numbers will increase by five percent in the next 10 years.

Students interested in the program must meet all admission criteria for Rio Grande and also complete the employment process for Bob Evans, Inc.*

(* The University will provide other internship opportunities for students interested in pursuing the hospitality degree who are not employed by Bob Evans.)

"The program will give students a skills foundation in an industry that continues to hire and grow despite the lagging economy," says Joe Eulberg, Bob Evans Farms Executive Vice President of Human Resources.

You're one of a kind. So are we!
