The Student Voice of Rio Grande College

OCTOBER 13, 1972

Judiciary Meets

The Student Judiciary meets every Tuesday night at 9:30 in the Board Room above the Student Center. Anyone who feels that he has something which should be brought to our attention is welcome to attend. We will try to keep you informed of points to be aware of. It's a good idea for everyone to become familiar with the Student Handbook.

There is an issue which has risen that we feel you, the students, should be made aware of. Any student removing or transferring furniture from or within the dorms should have written permission from the dorm director. Even though it may seem minor to borrow furniture from the dorm, a student may be charged for the value of the furniture or for the damages inflicted upon it. Without written permission, the student is responsible for all removal and transfer of furniture from and within the dorm.

Prophet Speaks Out

LaVerne Lobdell, an ex-con who hated everybody and everything, became a man of peace and love as a prophet of the Lebanese mystic, Kahlil Gibran.

LaVerne tells the story of his personal odyssey from the hell of drugs, crime, and prison to the peace of understanding and love.

LaVerne speaks with great power and intensity and shows a lot of concern for today's youth. His presentation is informal, personal, real and speaks to the heart. LaVerne tells how it really is.

He has appeared at colleges all over the U.S., has been on radio and TV, and is negotiating with Alfred Knopf on a book of his life and with RCA Victor on an album — Happiness is Gibran.

Upon LaVerne's request, the following letter has been printed:
Dear Sirs:

I would like to state that I represent myself entirely, and have deliberately refrained from affiliating myself with any Agency, Lecture Bureau, or other profit-making Organization — the majority of which are having enough of a field day in the Lecture business without my help. If I am successful in my endeavors, I would like to be represented or sponsored by a reputable Non-Profit Organization of integrity which would contribute the normally withheld commission that these organizations charge for their services (which varies from 33½ pct. to 40 pct.) to a fund that would provide support to Youth Organizations which are disgracefully neglected. Society is so materialistically oriented that anything not showing a material profit is often ignored.

If the preceding venture is successful, I would also like to consider a fund that would provide education and rehabilitation for ex-convicts that are being released from our penal institutions without the proper preparation to become constructive members of our Society. This is also, by the way, one of the leading causes, if not the leading cause, of all the crimes of violence so prevalent in our streets today.

My plans are to make this letter public to any Periodical News Media etc. that might help me in my attempt to solicit a sponsor or Organization which would represent this type of program. I am hopeful that if I can create enough interest amongst people who might be willing to support such an educational and rehabilitation program, other professional lecturers and speakers might be induced to become affiliated with a program of this nature.

I am further hopeful of having this letter published in your school paper to see how many students and faculty would be in favor of a project such as this.

Sincerely,
La Verne Lobdell

Fields Views Registration

By Doug Fields

The deadline for voter registration in Gallia County was Tuesday, October 10.

The organized registration drive began with students transported in every hour of the day. All help was on a volunteer basis.

Upon arrival the Gallia County Board of Elections truly insulted the students of Rio Grande College. There was name-calling, we were told to leave, accused of being ignorant, and were seriously misled by the local board.

The students were motivated by the negative actions of the board. This type of motivation is not a good one, but it proved to be very beneficial in this case. The students' reaction to the legal illiteracy of the Gallia board was extremely contagious. The student response was fantastic.

It is clearly evident that the Gallia County Board of Elections is frightened by the youth vote and the strong possibility of College students influencing local elections. The students of Rio Grande College should, and will, vote in Gallia County! We WILL influence local elections! We will not influence these elections by money votes, or "back-stabbing" politics, but we will influence local politics by the right given students by the Federal Courts of the United States; the right to vote at the age of 18 years of age and the new residence law for college students in registration areas.

The staff of the Gallia County Board of Elections clearly showed its ignorance and biased views toward college students and their rights to express themselves as such.

The Election Board staff made the mistake of asking personal questions which they thought would discourage many students from registering.

The students know the law, and they enforced the law despite bitter accusations and misleading statements by the Gallia County Board. Rio Grande students are to be praised for demanding their rights in an area where we have been misinformed and totally ignored in the past.

To my knowledge, all students making the effort were granted registration privileges. The fact that it took most students two or three tries and constant verbal hassle, must be set aside momentarily. We were registered, and on November 7 we will prove that, by joining other Gallia County residents in voting for the issues and candidates of our choice.

Dr. Hart Reviews

"No man ever wished it longer." Samuel Johnson's comment about "Paradise Lost" echoes what we have all thought about the most things designed to improve us. A genuine exception is "The Maker of Dreams" which will be presented Friday night in Community Hall. Everyone who sees this play will wish it longer.

It is a pretty little fantasy about the discovery of love that seems somehow truer than reality. Sheri Lenhart is very believable and touching as the unnoticed, but loyal heroine. Dwight Shumway plays a minstrel and songwriter who is too aware of his own artistic sensitivity, and has the common masculine traits of being a little dense and a little spoiled. In short, he is the typical male. The women will probably be amused by him, and the men too if they don't mind laughing at themselves. The heroine is not very liberated, but she is very sweet. Brendan Bey plays the maker of dreams. If you wonder just what it is he does, I suggest that you see the play.

The play is a short one; the viewer becomes wrapped up in the fate of the characters, and does not want it to end. Perhaps, however, it is best not to follow the progress of love too far, as the second play indicates. "Sorry, Wrong Number" is balanced neatly between suspense and grim comedy, and centers around the bed of an irritable and self-centered invalid played by Shirley Richardson. She accidentally overhears a murder being planned when she lifts the phone to call her husband, and little by little begins to suspect that she is the intended victim. Miss Richardson's role is a difficult one, for she must be disagreeable enough to seem the likely victim of a plot, yet human enough to win some measure of our sympathy. She succeeds very well.

Is her fear only a groundless suspicion that will teach her a needed lesson about taking others for granted, or is she really the intended victim? If so, does she realize soon enough to get help? I don't think Miss Reynolds or the cast would be pleased if I told.

The rehearsal of both plays took only an hour, but in that time I saw two completely opposite views of life, one light, fanciful, sentimental, the other darkly comic, merging into nightmare. Each is true in its own way, and together they make one feel the complexity of life. These plays are not intended to improve you, however, only to delight you, and they do that very well.

"The Maker of Dreams" was directed by Steven Little, "Sorry, Wrong Number", by Cheri Goldberg.

Dennis Jones and Cynthia Wilson register before 9 p.m. deadline.

EDITORIAL

For the first time, Rio Grande students have been allowed to register to vote in Gallia County. Also for the first time, Rio's students are aware of the feelings of the community toward the students.

Rio's students were questioned unnecessarily about irrelevant information. Guys were asked whether they were Mr. or Miss. The "nice" ladies at the Board of Elections asked students if they knew their parents would no longer be able to claim them as dependents. This is false. They asked the students where they would be four years from the time of registering. The ladies on the Board of Elections office complained throughout the day that they had not had a drink of water all day. When students offered to fill a glass with water for them, their offers were refused. Yet, the complaining continued.

The Board of Elections must have been awake all weekend through Columbus Day thinking of snide comments.

Not realizing the outcome, the Board seemed to feel they might harass the students into giving up registration. In reality, this stirred the students and staff of Rio into defensive action. Doug Fields, Mrs. Ross, and Nancy Kline took students to Gallia County Courthouse to register.

Rio Grande students must now ascertain the notice of Gallia County. We must go to the polls on November 7 and make our mark.

Letters

Dear Editor,

Several weeks ago on the campus of Rio Grande, a special election was held to fill vacancies on the Student Senate, and on the Student Activities Committee. Rebuttal came from many white students from that action when four Black students (six make up the committee) were elected on to the Student Activities Committee. There was even talk of a recount because the whites couldn't believe that Blacks were so dominant on the committee! Well, anyway, dissatisfaction arose, because on the ballot to select a homecoming group, all the groups listed were Black. I think if some of the students took time to check out their minds, they'd find out that what they're seeing is a "reversal process" happening.

In past years, Black students were faced with seeing "all-white" committees who'd choose white groups. Come on now, student body, let's all be realistic about the transition which has taken place. Black students on campus are tired of being the silent majority and they've become involved. Let us realize, they too make up the student body and it was the student body that elected them into the office as such. I feel as though any time students want to form a petition to demand a recount, more power to them. But let us not live in a state of oblivion, that in past years Black students didn't demand a recount.

Something else students should take note is the fact that one white student ran on the ballot. So in conclusion I'd like to say it's late to change anything, you voted them in, so live with it. I don't think you guys made a bad choice(s)!!

A Message To The Drug Addict!!
My Dear Junkie!

It is about time somebody told you the truth about your habit! You've been lying, cheating, stealing, and working angles ever since you got hooked — now it's time to stop and do some hard thinking for just ten minutes. If you like the stuff and just want to control your habit—NO ONE CAN HELP YOU." Get this thing straight — THERE IS NO HOPE FOR YOU UNLESS YOU ARE DESPERATE FOR HELP! Take a good look at yourself! You thought you were different — you thought you would never get hooked. You thought you would never have to mug or break-in, you never thought you'd end up like a beggar just living from one fix to another. You didn't want to admit you were getting hooked but now you can't fool yourself any longer. YOU'RE A JUNKIE — YOU'RE HOOKED — YOU'RE LOSING YOUR LIFE AND YOUR SOUL!! If you like the kind of life you are leading, don't read another word. I want to talk just to addicts who are sick of junk and who want to start a new life.

There is a life-time cure for drug addiction. It doesn't matter how long a run you have had — you can be cured. There are five steps to this cure.

1. Admit you are HOOKED. QUIT talking about a big or a little habit. A habit is a habit so why not admit it.

2. QUIT LOOKING FOR AN EASY WAY-OUT! There is no simple magic cure. There are no synthetic drugs or substance that can pull you out. Methadone is no cure.

3. Give yourself over to God! You must have faith in God. When you connect with a pusher, how do you know that he is not selling you rat poison instead of pure H? You shoot-up without testing it under a microscope because you must have faith that it would be good junk! If you can trust a pusher why can't you trust God — HE NEVER LETS YOU DOWN!

4. Start planning your life all over again. All your plans must start with God. Make Him your partner and don't ever let Him leave your life. Don't let Him leave you by your neglect. Give God first chance to use your life. He might want you to help other addicts when you get fully cured.

5. Shake off all of your fears! Fear is the demon that turned you into an addict to start with. When you turn your life over to God, you never have to fear again. When Jesus comes to live in your heart, He drives away all fears and doubts.

MAY GOD BLESS YOUR BATTLE WITH THIS PROBLEM.

Wrestling Club Meeting Set

On Tuesday, October 17 at 6:30 p.m. a meeting will be held for all interested men who wish to join the wrestling club. The meeting will be held in Room 203 at Lyne Center. Practice is expected to be held Wednesday, October 18.

Dr. George Wolfe and Bruce Curtis will be assisting the club in practice and in the scheduling of matches. There are already two other teams in the league that have wrestling. Hopefully matches will be scheduled with these teams in addition to other college wrestling teams around the area.

Anyone who cannot attend the meeting should see Dr. Wolfe in Lyne Center for details.

Absentee Balloting

For the average person who votes in the town where he is registered, casting a ballot is as easy as walking down the street, submitting a name to an election official, entering the voting booth and flicking the appropriate lever. But for the person who is registered in his hometown and living somewhere else, voting means applying for and receiving an absentee ballot.

Voting absentee is a complicated, almost dizzying procedure. It is also risky. The confusion of deadlines, application forms, special signatures and rigid directions may even result in a discarded ballot.

For the student who must vote absentee, there are many procedures that must be followed. They all revolve around one important factor: Time.

In many cases, it will take as many as three letter exchanges between a student and his local clerk to finally secure a ballot. It could take as long as three to four weeks simply to receive an application so the absentee voter must be extremely aware of deadlines.

In initially requesting an absentee ballot from the town, county or city clerk, the voter should include his name, home address, the address where the ballot should be sent and the reason for necessitating an absentee ballot.

Deadlines, in either case, are crucial. The dates vary considerably from state to state so a check with the local clerk of the League of Women Voters is a necessity.

Following directions to the letter may also make the difference between having a vote counted or discarded. Non compliance with directions is a valid reason for a discounted ballot. Again, procedures differ from state to state. In some cases it will be necessary to have the signature of a notary public before the ballot can be considered valid. Notaries are found in most banks, the courthouse or the county clerk's office.

In sending in a ballot, there is always a deadline to meet. It's best to send the ballot out immediately, for frequently the ballot must be received by a specified date, and even, hour. Votes have been lost because a ballot was received an hour after the determined deadline.

The red tape involved in voting absentee can be discouraging. Not only must the voter remember to vote, he must also remember deadlines, directions and special requirements. Most important, he must not forget to apply for his ballot.

Have you applied for yours?

Morrow Advises Staff

Mr. Gordon Morrow, former Jackson County editor and publisher, has joined the Rio Grande teaching staff as student publications advisor. He begins working this week with the staffs of the "Grandion" and the "Signals."

A graduate of Wellston High School, Mr. Morrow received a degree in commerce from Ohio University. He was one of the first students in Ohio University's School of Journalism. He worked on various newspapers until 1928, when he and W. E. Thomas purchased the "Wellston Sentinel," Jackson County's only daily paper. In the early 30s, Mr. Morrow and his partner acquired the "McArthur Democrat-Enquirer." They edited and published both papers until Mr. Morrow sold his interests to Southeastern Ohio Newspapers in 1968 and retired.

Mr. Morris is Secretary of the Wellston Rotary Club, and writes "The Outpost," a regular general interest column in the "Wellston Telegram."

Youth Fare Abolished?

WASHINGTON, D. C. — While nine million college students are returning to campus, the Civil Aeronautics Board is wondering when to break the news of their decision.

In January, 1968, CAB examiner Arthur S. Present ruled that discount fares limited to persons 12 to 21 years old are "unjustly discriminatory" because age alone isn't a valid distinction between passengers. Shortly thereafter, Mr. Present received mail from college students by the sack load. Their expression of opinion was so overwhelming that the CAB ruled that airline youth fare discounts don't unjustly discriminate against adults. The board put off any decision on a petition to abolish the discounts a study of whether the fares were reasonable in relation to carrier costs was completed.

After four years of study, the CAB planned to make an announcement of their decision in August, an official states. Sources at several airlines agree the announcement will probably be delayed until after the November elections. They concur that chances for the fare to continue look bleak.

Originally youth fares were challenged by National Trailways Bus System, a trade association of bus companies, and by TCO Industries, Inc., formerly Transcontinental Bus System, Inc.

U. S. Airlines were split on the issue during the examiner's investigation; 14 of the carriers offering youth discounts supported them and 10 opposed them or didn't take a position.

Over $300-million is spent by young people on youth fare tickets annually. Each year over 1-million youth fare cards are bought by young people who believe that they are entitled to its benefits until age 22. If the fare is abolished, privileges of the card would be revoked.

It is interesting to note the delayed announcement of the CAB decision comes in the first election year allowing youth to vote at age 18. Such news might play an important part in the elections if young people sent inquiries to the presidential candidates.

Rio's New Couple

The dynamic duo of Rio Grande College announces their engagement. The campus is in a state of shock!! The most talked-about couple on campus finally did it. Both parties are surprisingly elated over this remarkable step in life, both could hardly believe the whole thing.

This is the most spectacular event to occur on the Rio Grande Campus since the Bevo Francis Era! The lucky man ending a long and industrious career as a confirmed bachelor and Playboy is none other than Wayne Warrington, the grandfather of the notorious organization in Bid Gon's bad boys. The lucky girl is Kathy Gledhill, the stoic and heroic lifeguard who is known to frequent Lyne Center.

This has long been a popular subject of conversation and speculation since the pair started being seen together last spring. This ends much of the Rio Grande Gossip.

Who's next, Folks?

Rio Grande Gets The Blues

If ya' dig the "blues" I think we can ... Thursday evening, Oct. 26th at 9 p.m. in Lyne Center, as the Student Activities Committee brings "Muddy Waters" and his blues musicians to Rio.

So, contact your friends so we'll have a good crowd for the show. Students with ID's and faculty will be admitted for free. Admission for others will be $2. Ya can't beat it for an evening with one of America's best-known blues singers.

SEA Regional Meeting

Otterbein College in Westerville will host the Regional Meeting of the Student Education Association on Saturday, October 14. SEA members who intend to go should contact Tom Smith or Emily Robinson. The first fourteen who sign up with Emily Robinson will drive to the meeting in the new college mini-bus. The remaining students will form car pools.

The group will depart from the library at 6:50 Saturday morning and return by 5 p.m. Coffee and donuts will be furnished by the Westerville SEA upon arrival, but members will pay for their noon meal. All schools except the host school will be in competition for an attendance award.

Rio Grande College is expected to host some thirteen colleges and universities at the spring meeting of the SEA's Southeastern Regional Group.

Variety Is Key To Intramurals

By Ron Boggs
Coming Events

The Women's Phase of the Intramural Program is offering new activities for the month of October. Registration is now being made for "Powder-Puff" football, which is open to student and faculty and staff women. Games are scheduled to begin Tuesday, October 17th at 6:30 p. m. and will be played every Tuesday and Thursday. Deadline for registration is today, October 13, at Lyne Center.

A Women's Archery Tournament is being planned for Saturday, October 28th at 1:30 p. m. The tournament will be a bare-bow type (no aiming devices) and HPER archery equipment will be available for competitors. Awards will be given to first, second and third place winners. Deadline for registration is today, October 13, Lyne Center.

Registration Looks Grim

So far, only 14 students-faculty-staff members have indicated an interest for bowling leagues and only four students and faculty members have shown an interest for the Saturday, October 21st Rifle shoot. If more interest is not shown in either activity by today, October 13, both activities will be forced to cancel from the intramural fall program.

CHESS TOURNEY

The three chess finalists are now engaged in a round-robin battle which resulted in Edward Sayre defeating Professor J. Sherman Porter, then the following day Edward Ison defeating Edward Sayre. Each finalist will have opportunity to play each opponent three games.

INTRAMURAL FOOTBALL

The J's defeated the Jets 36-8 as the J's scored 28 points in the last minute and sixteen seconds of the game. Steve Herrington continued his aerial dynamics as he threw a 40-yard TD pass to Bob Snouffer and threw the extra points to Jim Chapman. However, the score was deadlocked 8-8 until Herrington threw a short TD pass to Chapman and the extra points to Snouffer, giving the J's a 16-8 lead with 1:16 left in the game. The Jets began to fall apart as Bogie Stram recovered a Jet fumble which led to a 20-yard scoring run by Chapman. Beeny Wedge intercepted a pass, and on the next play Chapman trotted to a 60-yard TD. Wedge ran the extra points. The Jets deteriorated all the way as Bob Snouffer intercepted a pass, ran 15 yards and lateraled off to Chapman, who scampered 50 yards for the score.

The Rejects won their first game — almost. The Rejects beat the New Yorkers 28-22, but the game goes down in the record books as a 1-0 win for the New Yorkers. Reason — Forfeit.

The Rejects were caught shorthanded, but they played with the assistance of Jim Johnston and Ollie Mills from the New Yorkers. These two starred for the Rejects, as well as Tom Mills, who threw one TD pass, and Warren Schleupner, who caught two long bombs.

The New Yorkers earlier staged a major upset when they defeated Team 3. This is all the word we got on the game.

The Rejects returned to their usual form of losing as they suffered a devastating 38-12 defeat at the hands of Team 4 (Jets). No word on how the Jets scored. The Rejects scored on an 80-yard pass from Tom Mills to Warren Scheupner. Terry McCain caught a TD pass from the hands of Ski Godinski.

In the game between the Titans Team 3 stopped the potent scoring attack of the J's as they posted a 26-12 victory. Norm Persin paced the attack with three touchdown passes and an extra point pass. Joe Quatrochi caught a 26-yard scoring strike and a 65-yard TD bomb. Bruno Simonelli caught a 40-yard scoring toss, and also caught a pass for the extra points. Steve Herrington threw a 50-yard bomb to Bob Snouffer and Jim Chapman scored on a 20-yard jaunt to account for the only scores for the J's.

This is all we got on this week's game. However, the big news of the week is that the Cincinnati Reds beat the Pittsburgh Pirates in the NL playoffs three games to two. How about that, Dragon!!!

WOMEN'S TENNIS

The women's tennis intramurals is coming to an end. Deb LaDuca defeated Bonnie Yerian 8-4 and Cathy Sedinger 8-1. T-shirts and points will be given to the winner.

INTRAMURAL AWARD SYSTEM

With a limited budget but with determination that awards must be a part of the Intramural program, an awards system was devised by Deb LaDuca, Women's Intramural Assistant; John "Ski" Godinski, Men's Intramural Assistant, and Dr. George Wolfe, Intramural Director. The system will be incorporated during the 1972-73 academic year. For "Team" activities ending prior to October 15, a waiting period will be necessary until mid-October in order to receive awards. This waiting period is due to a company purchasing delay. The awards are as follows:

TEAM AWARD (example: jarts, football, volleyball) — 1st place,

Colored T-Shirts for each team member. T-Shirts include Rio Grande College Intramural Champion, plus name of activity. INDIVIDUAL AWARD (example: archery, chess, golf) 1st Place, 16 oz. mug engraved with Rio Grande College Intramural Champion, plus name of activity. 2nd Place, 14 oz. mug engraved as above except Runnerup. 3rd Place, Oxford T-Shirt; Rio Grande College Intramurals.

NOTE: Any intramural competition which includes forfeit only, no awards will be given winners.

Deb La Duca presents T-shirts to Pam Douthitt and Marc Arcuri. Pam and Mert defeated Chic Penn and Toni Graves in the Jarts Playoffs. Jane Gaul and Iesa Wagner placed third in the Jarts Tournament.

Rio Runners Rank Fourth

For the second time in a week, the Rio Grande cross country team ventured to the state of Indiana, and for a second straight time the thinclads of Coach Bruce Curtis brought back a trophy from an invitational meet.

Rio Grande, which finished second in the Taylor Invitational earlier last week, ended up in a fourth place tie Saturday at the Marion, Indiana Invitational.

Fifteen teams from four states, including Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Illinois, participated in the meet, won by Aquinas of Michigan.

Aquinas scored 39 points, followed by second place Taylor University of Indiana with 81. Indiana Central was third with 83 points and Rio Grande and Hillsdale, Michigan, each had 110 points in fourth place.

Taylor University's Taylor Oliver, who was the medalist in the Taylor Invitational just last Tuesday, also won individual honors at Marion with a time of 25:34, a new course record at Marion.

For the Redmen, Jack Finch was the highest finisher with a clocking of 26:28. That was the best time ever recorded by Finch on a five mile course. Rio had four of the top twenty runners among the 105 men who took part. Ken Sanders was 12th, with a time of 26:46; Bruce Melton placed 17th at 27:15, and Stacy Osborne, 20th, came in with a time of 27:20. The fifth man for Rio Grande, Bill Canfield was 54th. His time was 28:46. Incidentally, that was the best time ever for Canfield.

Rio Grande and Aquinas were the only teams to get four men in the top 20 places. Aquinas placed their five runners third, fifth, seventh, eleventh and thirteenth respectively.

This was the fourth invitational Rio has run in this fall. Rio finished first in the Mountain Climb, and placed second in the Taylor event and tied for fourth at Marion. Rio did not place in the Morehead State Invitational in September. In dual meets, the Redmen are 2-0.
